Creating Edinburgh
The Interdisciplinary City

Welcome to Creating Edinburgh course sets out from the seminar room to explore the city of Edinburgh, on foot and online. It rs you a unique opportunity to engage with the contemporary city as a site for new ideas, gns, and methods. The course responds creatively to Edinburgh's various sites and routes, ging together students from across the University of Edinburgh to work together in rdisciplinary teams.

of the tabs on this site introduces a 'field week' topic. These are available for your tutorial up to select and programme as part of your learning experience. This allows you to plot your path through the course, culminating in the design and development of your own topic, which be available to future cohorts. The work you do on this course will actually be shared and used nominated in the 2022 student-led Teaching Awards, in the category Outstanding Course

This was a brand new course this year but still managed to be one of the best I've ever taken! I loved the hands on approach of exploring the city, as well as how many topics were covered. Everyone was very accommodating and helpful as well.
